A screenshot of a web page titled "verify email address". The page has a blue header with the title and navigation links: "Home", "FAQ", "Buy This Script", and "About". The main content area is white. On the left, there is a section titled "Free Email Address Verifier" with a description: "This absolutely free of charge email verification tool actually connects to the mail server and checks whether the mailbox exists or not." Below this, it says "What is being verified:", "Format: 'name@domain.xxx'", "Valid domain: 'somebody@new.york' is not valid", and "Valid user: Verify that the user and mailbox really exist". There is an input field and a "Verify" button. On the right, there are two "Ads by Google" sections. The first is titled "Anyone's Email Address" and the second is "WorldWide Email Finder". At the bottom, there are social media links for "del.icio.us it!" and "Stumble It!". A footer contains the text "Copyright 2007 Email Address Pro".
